THE CIRCLE

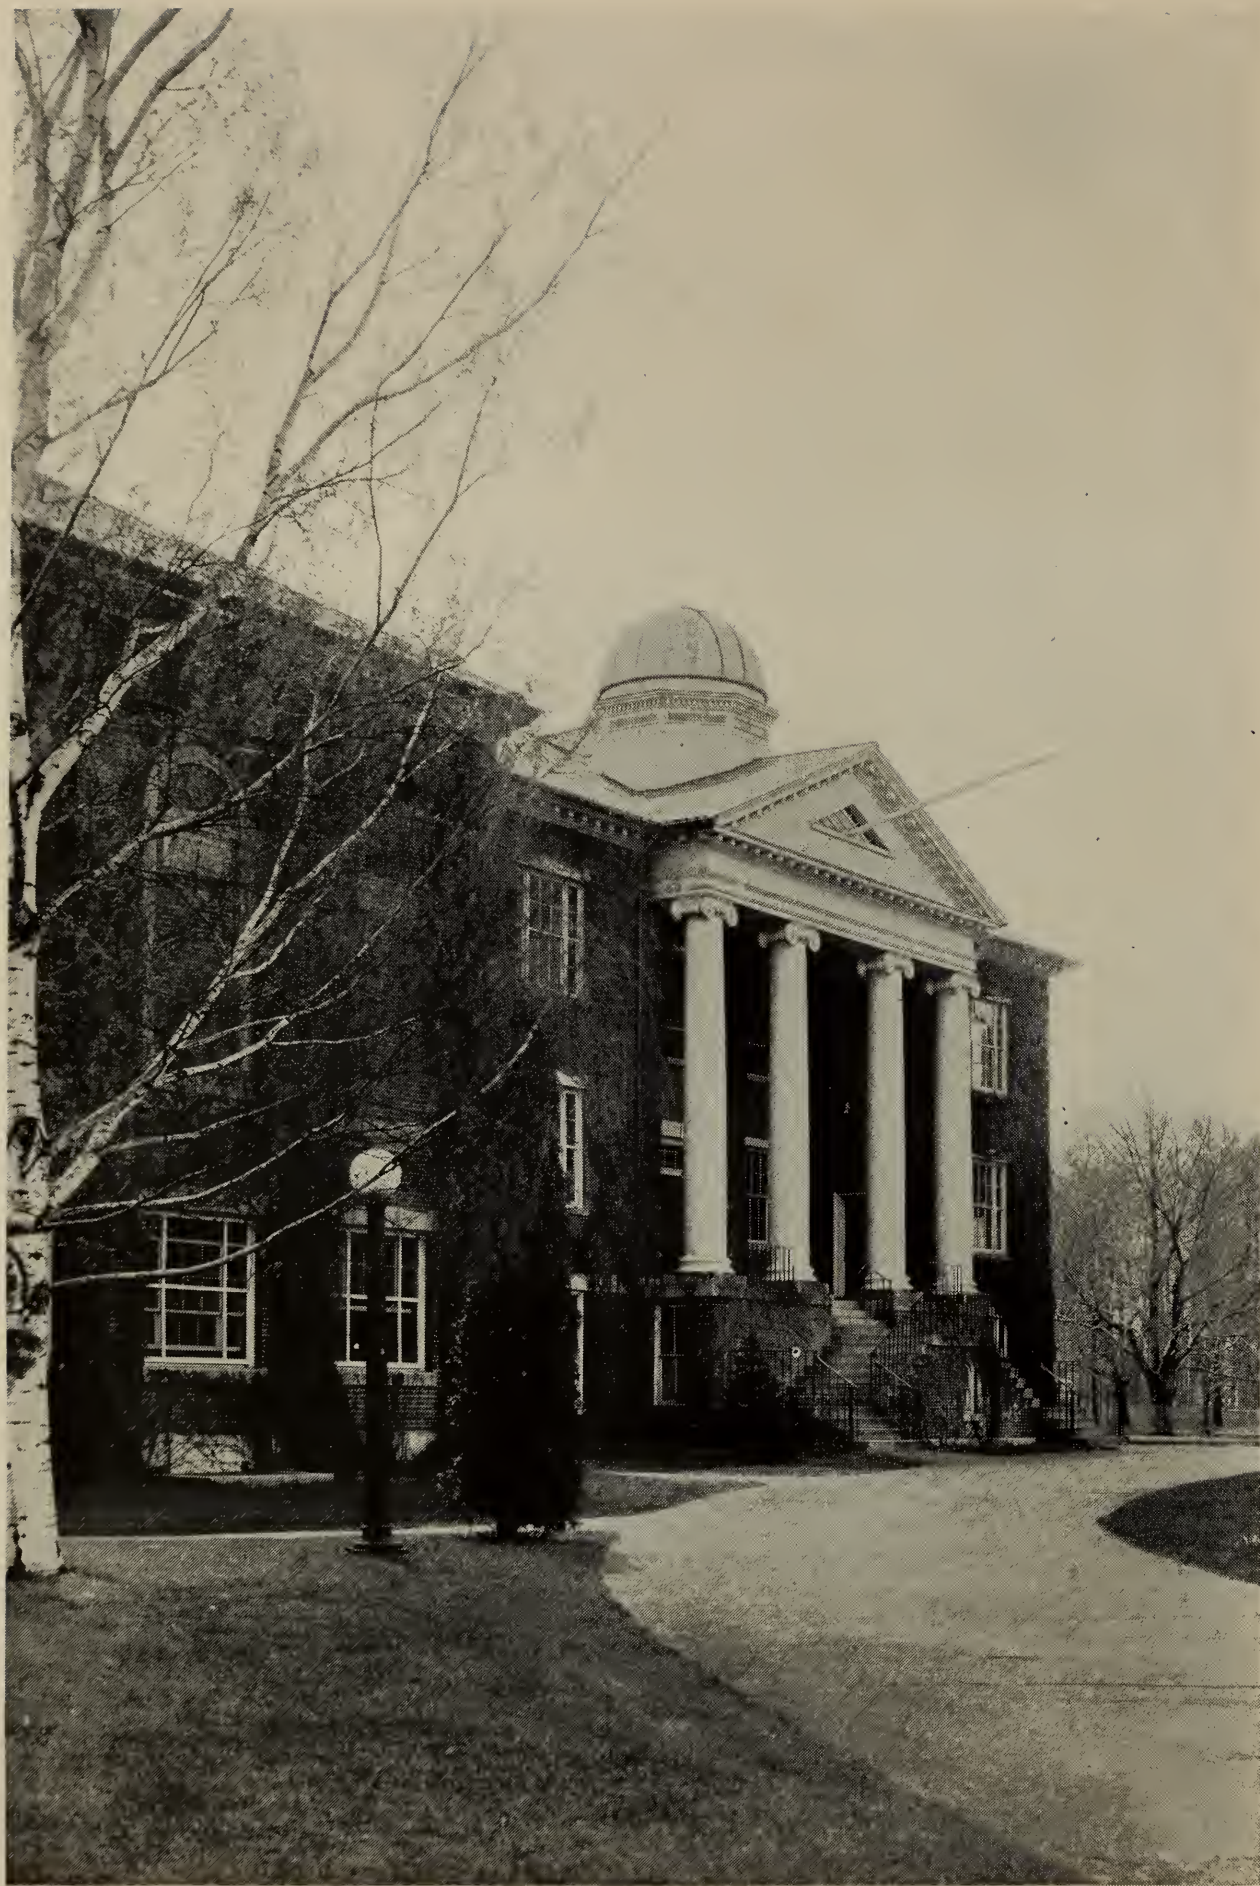

1937

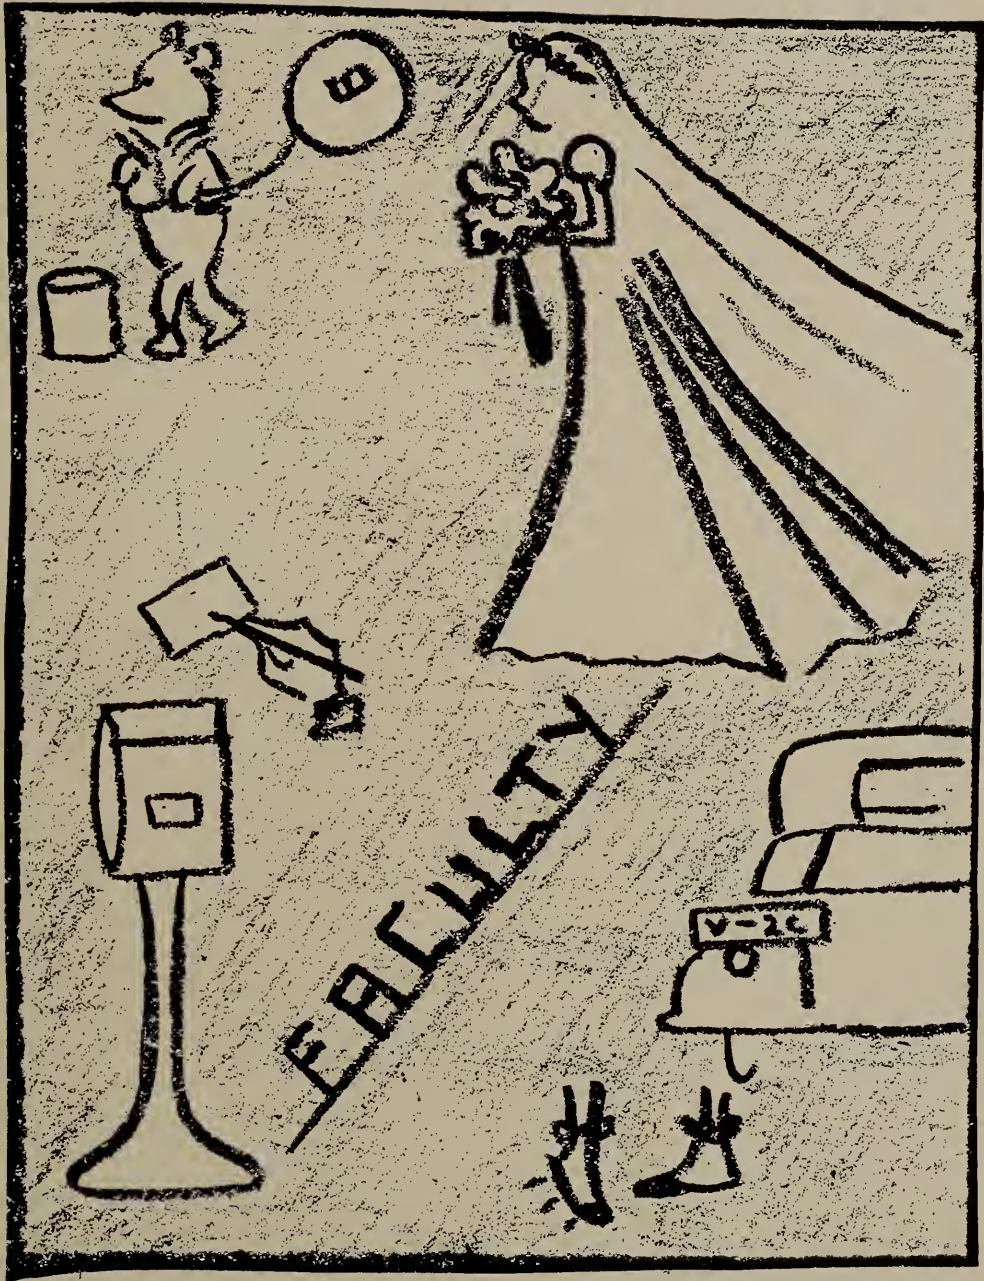

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS
ABBOT ACADEMY
ANDOVER, MASSACHUSETTS

DEDICATION

To Miss Harsey the Class of Thirty-seven takes pride and pleasure in dedicating its YEARBOOK. She has been more than our principal and counselor, she has been our friend. This has been her first year at Abbot but in so short a time she has won the loyalty and affection of the whole school. We, the Class of Thirty-seven, are proud to be Miss Harsey's first graduating class. We earnestly hope that we may ever be a credit to her.

Class Song

Thirty-seven's marching
Onward, always marching
Striving for the best we know;
We'll be loyal ever
To our school, we'll never
Be unfaithful or untrue.
Raise our banner green up to the sky,
Never let its meaning to us die;
Abbot, when we leave you
We will not forget you,
Thirty-seven's marching on.

Tree Song

Each branch is a day from a bygone year,
Each leaf is an hour we spent,
Each bud a dream or a murmured prayer
The whispering breeze once sent.

The roots of this tree are faith and love,
That will cling though our paths may part,
Its greenest tip is the shining goal
We seek with a yearning heart.

The whole is a tribute to our youth,
May it face all the storms and strife
With courage high and with head unbowed,
As we too would face our life.

JOAN TODD

Ring Song

May this lovely golden ring
Lasting strength and wisdom bring,
Purpose steadfast, vision clear,
To all of us who gather here.

Kindness, patience, love of life,
Courage, too, to face the strife,
Loyalty that we may be,
Oh Abbot, ever true to thee.

1937—Class History—1937

PREP: —

When I entered this fair school in September of the year 1932, I was filled with awe and, without a doubt, bad manners and was straightway reproved by the noble Seniors with sharp words and glances when I failed to rise immediately on the entrance of certain upright and illustrious members of the faculty. Before the year was over I learned many things. Among these was the fact that when a member of the above-mentioned faculty intrudes upon an unauthorized student convention choose the sub-bed dash rather than a closet-burrow because the hangers rattle. Also was taken down three and one-half notches by a Senior when I spoke downtown to Bill Jones, a boy from home, who is going to P. A.

JUNIOR: —

Was so eager to get back that I arrived a day early and was much disgruntled to find nothing but new girls. However, I lowered myself to a degree where-in I could see them and condescended to point out the way to Lowe's. Was very discouraged to find that my feet are rather large for ballroom dancing inasmuch as they always arrive at and cover the same space that my partner's arrive at and cover a moment later. Have ruined my white shoes thereat.

JUNIOR-MID: —

Was given a new girl to write to this summer. Wrote her many lurid tales of life at school after which she refused to come. Helped write the class song and pick out the class colors. Later was greatly gratified, etc. to be elected to a society. (Have learned that the use of a society is to collect dues to pay for the food we eat at meetings.) Also have decided that I must be quite a gorgeous creature because Bill Jones is calling regularly. Tried to learn to like coffee at dinner and lay awake all night thereafter.

SENIOR-MID: —

Felt even more superior to new girls who entered our class this year. Discovered to my surprise that they were only human while attending the picnic at Prospect. (By the way, it rained.) Was pleased at the thought of wearing new class sweater and was not disappointed. Was slightly irked when I learned how much I had to pay for the Prom but recovered when I reflected on the thought of getting in free next year. Rained on both the day of our tea-dance and of our plays. Greatly embarrassed myself by two things. 1). Toasting the wrong person at the class banquet. 2). Sitting through the Senior porch when we were given the Parlor. Went to P. A. Prom with Bill and then struggled valiantly with two unmentionable College Boards.

SENIOR: —

Began to feel like a Senior when I observed Preps' frightened looks and awed (odd) glances. Rained on the day of the picnic so we opened Baronial. Intervale was wonderful despite a rainstorm all Sunday. Rained gently on "Berkeley Square." Also damp weather for the Prom. Wore my trench-coat over to John-Esther for the banquet. Was driven to church for Commencement because of rain. Passed my college boards!

The Class Will and Won't

We, the Senior Class of Abbot Academy, in the year of nineteen hundred and thirty-seven, being in sound mind (I said mind) and body (reference — “this too, too solid flesh” — Shakespeare) hereby do set down those qualities and articles which, being needed by ourselves we refuse to bequeath to anyone:—

Peden's calm and quietude.

Todd's tact. (Inherited last year from Tommy Reinhart.)

Pettingill's brother.

Collen's ability to bluff.

Sawyer's Prom dates.

Our drag with the Faculty.

However, knowing as we do, that Abbot would be a dull place without many of our endearing qualities we do hereby make, publish, and declare this to be our last will and testament:— We leave —

Our special inner-spring beauty-rest mattresses to the Hotel Bellvue, Intervale.

Holbrook's neatness to Homestead.

Prof's puns to anyone who'll take them.

Our boxes upon boxes of A.B.D. pills to Jane Currier.

Senior rooms to the Senior-mids. (Nice of us, isn't it?)

Our high aspirations to Miss Butterfield.

Our lost pounds to Miss Carpenter.

Our ability to manoeuvre Chickie to the Senior-Mids.

Our diets to Christine Robinson.

Our correspondence (not correspondents) to Marie Appleby.

Our goldfish to Crass.

Our True Story Magazines to the Infirmary.

The Senior Play and Shakespeare to the Senior-Mids.

Our acquiescence to the Junior-Mids.

Our beer jackets to Belle and Winnie.

Our super-colossal four-star hit, “The Golden Hand,” to next year's Entertainment Committee.

All un-retuned books to the Library.

All bells to the Physics lab.

All notebooks to the garbage-collector.

Our curling irons to Theodore.

Intervale Song

(TUNE: A Little Bit of Heaven)

Sure a little bit of heaven
Fell from out the sky one day,
And it nestled in New Hampshire
Not so many miles away;
And when the angels found it
Sure it looked so sweet and fair,
They said, "Suppose we leave it,
For it looks so peaceful there."
So they sprinkled it with sunshine
Just to make the pine trees grow,
They're the finest ones that can be found
No matter where you go.
And they placed the mountains round it
Just to keep away the gale,
And when they had it finished,
Sure they called it Intervale!

Senior-Mid Song

The class of '38 is marching on
And ever singing as we go along
To future life that waits us every one,
A life that should be worthy when it is done.
So helped and aided by this school of ours
To strengthen all our talents and our powers,
We bravely face our fortune and our fate.
We are the Class of '38.

The Parting Hymn

Father, I know that all my life
 Is portioned out for me;
The changes that are sure to come
 : I do not fear to see :
But I ask thee for a present mind
 Intent on pleasing thee.

I ask thee for a thoughtful love
 Through constant watching wise,
To meet the glad with joyful smiles,
 : And to wipe the weeping eyes :
And a heart at leisure from itself,
 To soothe and sympathize.

Wherever in the world I am,
 In whatsoe'er estate,
I have a fellowship of hearts
 : To keep and cultivate; :
And a work of lowly love to do
 For the Lord on whom I wait.

So I ask Thee for the daily strength
 To none that ask denied,
And a mind to blend with outward life
 : While keeping at Thy side; :
Content to fill a little space
 If Thou be glorified.

Why We Came to Abbot

WILLIAMS	Why did I come to Abbot?
L. STEVENSON	To break the ice
SHELDON	For a change of atmosphere
RANSOM	To see the big city
BURDINE	To see if Yankees are all they are cracked up to be
PIERPONT	To be in Choir
PEDEN	To ski
BROOKS	To learn French
BOYNTON	Too much radio
VIBBERTS	To see if the life of the school was free and happy
RISLEY	To eat an Abbot Special
MELCHER	To take Morton Street
J. STEVENSON	To grow up and to meet the “cultured easterners”
SIMPSON	Just for the Dickens of it
HAMILTON	See if I could fill my sister’s shoes
GAGE	Mere convenience
BAIN	For the ride every day
RICHARDS	It was “Abbotized” in all the magazines
COLLENS	Process of elimination
SAWYER	To develop my voice and meet someone my own size
PETTENGILL	To stir things up
CUTTER	To make roller skates for backward children

Ambition

Each day we go to History class
To learn if we can that subject pass.
With trembling lips and shaking knees
We desperat’ly try Miss Bean to please.
With bated breath and pallid face
We see the red pencil’s rapid pace.
We always find on every test,
“Be concise. Few words are best!”
In every class it’s just the same.
We strive to pass not just toward fame.
Ah, diploma, for thee we strive.
For thee we labor as bees in a hive.
We ever long to grip thee tight
And feast our eyes on the glorious sight.
For then we’ll know that we have pass’d
And softly murmur, “Ah! At last!”

Abbot Merry-Go-Round

Once upon a time three men lived in a little house in a Wood at the top of a Hill. One was a Fisher, another a Hunter, and the last a Woodman. The house was across two Brooks and a Pond. The country had a similar appearance to England (or was it Poland).

One night the Hunter came home very angry. "Godfrey!" said he. "I'm Tuckered out. I was down by the brook where the Pierpoints at the other side, thinking that I'd Rutherford than swim, when along came a Risley bear. I Rose to the occasion and took Comstock of him and said, "Duncan any nearer," but he was Cross and Russed at me. "Waugh!!" said I, having a Tingley feeling. Then I Ransom and jumped a Holbrook.

"Forsyth, you've had some excitement," said the Fisher, "But Teichert, you are Sheldon Harrised. It's your pay for the Jenks you've been up to lately. And you sure looked funny Friskin through the woods. A mite Greene, too.

Joost then there were some Knox on the portals. A Poore girl drooped outside, her very legs Bowen with fatigue.

"Oh, save me! Protect me!" she begged as she was swooning. I am being pursued by the King's Butler and Baker." And she collapsed in the Hall.

"H-Evans!" said the Woodman. "Quickly! Inman, Parker in the chair. Maybe we Butterfield her pulse."

"Someone has Craiged her on the Bean," observed the Fisher as he Saundered over. "But—AH—here are her mortal enemies the Butler and the Baker."

Later the Hunter said that he thought the Fisher had been very brave. "I never would have thought that he could Rice to such heights. 'Stop!' he said as he drew his gun Hancocked it. 'This girl has asked our protection and I can not allow you to dis-Thurbur. So Thayer!' and he jumped on the Perrott once. 'It's people like you with no Hume-an interest that Burns me up.'

"And when he started in on them you should have seen them Milleround," finished up the Hunter. "Boy, they sure were mad. 'You may be a Freeman now,' he Bellows. 'But just you wait. I'll teach you a lesson as I've Todd some other people.'"

When they went back into the house again the girl had not recovered.

"Isn't she a Darling?" asked the Woodman.

"She is indeed," replied the Hunter. "I'll go and shoot a Partridge for her dinner." And he went and found one Pecking away at something and shot it through Athy. When he got back the girl ate the Hulburd. She then gently hinted that she could eat another if they wanted to Kilmer.

The Woodman said that he could Cutter a tree but that they would not get her any more bird because at that time it had Bain against the law for many years.

Soon the girl went home to her father, the Smith, and all the men who were trying to Currier favor. The Hunter, and the Fisher, and the Woodman all fell back into their old Abbots and lived happily ever after.

Good Yearbooks Don't "Just Happen"

THEY may vary tremendously in size, design, and cost, but all successful yearbooks have one thing in common . . . they represent hours of careful planning and painstaking workmanship.

This volume is no exception. The staff has worked long and diligently in order to make it an interesting record of the class and school.

It has been our privilege to assist in the publication of the book, working in close association with the members of the board. We wish to take this opportunity to thank them for their co-operation and to congratulate them on the results of their labors.
